PASSENGER LISTS OF SHIPS COMING TO NORTH AMERICA, 1607-1825

A BIBLIOGRAPHY

Compiled by A. HAROLD LANCOUR

OF inestimable value to genealogical and historical students would be a record of every emigrant who sailed from Europe to North America in the early years of our nation's history. But no such record exists. Actually, the ravages of fire and time have left to succeeding generations but little of the all too incomplete documents made by the shipping and port authorities in those early days. Those that do remain are now preserved in the archives and libraries of the United States and Europe.

In recent years efforts have been made to sort out, transcribe, and print from such old original records, diaries, log books, etc., lists of the early emigrants. This bibliography is an attempt to bring together a list of these printed sources and to put it into a convenient and usable form.

The emphasis in this compilation has been utilitarian rather than academic. Its purpose is to provide genealogists, historians and students of immigration with a useful guide to a widely scattered and little-known material. Such emphasis has had two results: first, to make advisable a free interpretation of the phrase "passenger list" so as to include all such collections of emigrants' or immigrants' names, as, in the opinion of the compiler, would be of value; and, second, to call for a simple bibliographical entry with a briefly descriptive rather than evaluative annotation.

On the assumption that the researcher, in looking for a particular individual's name, will know at least one of three things: the place of arrival, the approximate date of arrival, or the name of the ship, the list is arranged, first by the state to which the ship came, and second, under each state, chronologically by the year of arrival.

In addition there is a complete index to ships' names giving the exact reference to the contents of the book or article that is listed in the bibliography. In other words, it is an analytical index to every item included in the list.

In the last section will be found a short list of regional name registers, which, while not falling in the class of material admitted to the main list, still are so valuable to the researcher that it was deemed wise to call attention to them. These items are not indexed.

No claim is made for completeness, nor for unerring judgment in selection.

THE LIST

ALL PORTS

1600-1700

1. HOTTEN, JOHN CAMDEN, EDITOR. The original lists of persons of quality; emigrants; religious exiles; political rebels; serving men sold for a term of years; apprentices; children stolen; maidens pressed; and others who went from Great Britain to the American plantations, 1600-1700. With their ages, the localities where they formerly lived in the mother country, the names of the ships in which they embarked, and other interesting particulars. London: Chatto and Windus, 1874. 604 p. 8°. APK

Very comprehensive. Most of the material is from the original sources in the Public Record Office, London. Includes lists of ships to Bermuda and the Barbadoes as well as North America.

Has an index to all family names.

See note for item no. 15.
